Hesston Challenge Sweepstakes Opens at Powell Ford Tractor in Madison Heights

One of the biggest sweepstakes in farm equipment history has been recently launched by the Hesston Corporation. The contest, which runs from October 1 to November 25, 1978, offers the Grand Prize winner in each of four geographic areas of the U.S., the Hesston product of his choice free.

This is one of the first farm equipment sweepstakes to offer the sponsor's own products as Grand Prizes. And, according to Powell Ford Tractor, if any of the four Grand Prize Winners have purchased the Hesston product of their choice between September 1 and November 25, 1978, they will get their purchase price back plus a $5,000 bonus.

Forty $250.00 certificates for merchandise from Shepler's western wear catalog will also be awarded as Runner-Up prizes across the U. S. Shepler's is the world's largest western wear store. All winners will be determined by a random drawing.

According to Powell Ford Tractor, there are more than 45 Hesston products eligible for the Sweepstakes. Contestants must be at least 18 years old and actively engaged in farming. Entry information is available at his Hesston dealership at Madison Heights, Virginia.

Highlight of the Sweepstakes, will be the announcement of the four Grand Prize Winners during the popular Hesston telecast of the National Finals Rodeo. The two-hour telecast will take place in mid-December. Check local TV listings for time and channel. The National Finals Rodeo telecast is exclusively sponsored by Hesston Corporation and participating Hesston Farm Equipment dealers. The 1978 show will be the fifth consecutive year that Hesston has telecast the National Finals.

Raiderettes Still Going Strong

By Dana Ford

After traveling to Gretna Tuesday, the Raiderettes volleyball team came out on top. Even though it was a close match, the Raiderettes pulled through, with the final scores being 15-7 and 15-13. In the second game, the Raiderettes were behind 13-9 with only 14 seconds left on the clock. Annette Carter served 6 points to win the game.

The Raiderettes also defeated Brookville Thursday, 15-5 and 15-12. Top scorers in that match were Vanessa Smith with 10 points and Susan Handy with 9 points.

With a record of 5-0 the Appomattox team is now tied for first place in the Seminole District.

All team members encourage everyone to come out and support the Raiderettes.

Raiders Host Cavaliers In Homecoming Game Friday

The first place Appomattox Raiders will host the Jefferson Forest Cavaliers in the annual homecoming game this Friday at 8:00 p.m. in Bragg Stadium.

The Cavaliers boast a 4 and 2 Seminole District record and will be a tough opponent for the Raiders who are coming off a big win against Brookville last week.

Raider Head Coach Stuart Justus is concerned about Jefferson Forest who he describes as big and in possession of a fast running back by the name of Jefferson.

The Cavaliers have just two seniors in their starting offensive lineup but they cannot be taken lightly.

The Raiders, who must win to remain in first place, will be looking for an overflow crowd for the 1978 Homecoming.

Raiders Are Number One

In a must win situation, the Raiders scored a convincing 29-3 victory over the Brookville Bees in Stinger Stadium Friday night.

The Appomattox win coupled with a Rustburg loss to William Campbell gave the Raiders undisputed possession of first place in the Seminole District.

Coach Stuart Justus troops were charged up for the Friday contest but few Raider fans thorught they would be able to run away from the undefeated Bees.

The teams matched field goals early in the game with Freddie Mitchell connecting on a 37 yard attempt and the Bee's Darrell Walker hit a 38 yard boot.

Two Joe Fraley passes then set up a 1 yard Terry Woods TD run just before intermission and the Raiders held a 10-3 lead at halftime.

Freddie Mitchell scored for the Raiders in the third period after a sustained drive on Appomattox's first possession after the half. Mitchell, Kelso and Woods handled most of the ball carrying chores for the Raiders during the drive.

Andrew Kelso scored on a 15 yard run and Terry Woods picked up his second TD with a nine yard run to round out the scoring for the night. Mitchell kicked two PAT in addition to the field goal.

In the rushing department for the Raiders, Woods carried 25 times for 135 yards, Kelso carried 16 times for 79 yards, Mitchell had 55 yards on 8 carries and Fraley carried 3 times for 19 yards. Fraley competed 2 of 12 pass attempts for 87 yards and both were instrumental in setting up the first Raider touchdown.

The Appomattox defense played another super game with Myron McFee, Kenny Burks, Glenn Gilliam, Duane Gilliam, Kevin O'Brien, and Ronnie Abernathy as standouts. Key interceptions were made by Ronnie Hodnett, Joe Fraley, Andrew Kelso and Kenny Burks. The Bees were held to six first downs, and 125 yards total offense with only one first down and 33 yards in the second half. Bee's quarterback Ridky Precious completed only one pass in 16 attempts.

The Raider defense has allowed only 23 points in six games for a 3.83 average.

CANCER Answer line
American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

A factory worker writes: "What is our government doing to protect people who work with materials that may cause cancer?"

ANSWER line: Given the size of our Federal Government, and the size of the problem - some 700 new chemical compounds are created each year--it is no surprise that different agencies have different responsibilities in this matter.

In 1970, the Occupational Safety and Health Agency (OSHA) was established within the U.S. Department of Labor. This agency has the power to set and enforce health and safety standards in the workplace. And in 1970, too, the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) was established within the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to conduct research and to recommend new standards to OSHA. The National Cancer Institute (NCI), the Federal Government's agency devoted to cancer research, makes its findings and scientific expertise available to NIOSH. The National Institutes of Health (NIH) also is working on the problem of job-related cancer. There are two aspects to this problem (1) identification of hazards through research; (2) regulation and enforcement of standards to protect workers. Since we have so many different kinds of industries, there also are highly specialized agencies aimed at protecting workers. For example, the Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration (MESA) an agency of the U.S. Department of the Interior, sets standards of safety and enforces them through inspection.

A reader explains: "Last year's 'Great American Smokeout' prompted me to quit cigarettes for three months. This time, I'd like to quit for good. Will there be another 'Smokeout?'"

ANSWER line: The American Cancer Society's "Great American Smokeout" will be held on November 16, 1978 as a one-day special event to convince people that they can do without cigarettes at least for 24 hours. Local ACS units will provide further help through smoking withdrawal clinics and other means. You can become involved in the "Smokeout" as a volunteer. If you need help in quitting, why wait until November? Your local ACS unit is eager to help you now!

A woman writes: "My 60-year-old aunt has a form of uterine cancer that strikes older women. What can you tell me about it?"

ANSWER line: There are two forms of uterine cancer. Cervical cancer occurs in the cervix, the neck-like opening of the womb (uterus); endometrial cancer occurs in the lining of the body of the uterus. Most cases of endometrial cancer occur among women in the 50-64-year age group. Vaginal discharge or bleeding are early signs of endometrial cancer which can be treated successfully when diagnosed early enough. Your local American Cancer Society Unit has a new pamphlet of information about both kinds of uterine cancer. It is available free to the public.

NEWS Of Education

FOOTING THE BILLS: WHO? HOW?

A bill now before Congress may solve the thorny problem of how to finance your children's education without going broke. The solution it offers is: Let your child finance his own education—when he can—at a rate he will be able to afford.

The bill would create a revolving trust fund, called the Tuition Advance Fund, which would become completely self-sustaining in about 20 years. After his freshman year, any college student—regardless of his parents' circumstances—could borrow up to $5,000 a year for tuition, room and board for the rest of his undergraduate work.

The advance would be repaid by the student during his entire working life--up to 35 years if necessary, less if desired--at a rate of two percent of his income until 150 percent of the amount had been repaid. Repayment would be pegged on his ability to handle that obligation within any given year. The Internal Revenue Service would effect the collection of the advance through payroll withholding.

The proposal for the Tuition Advance Fund bill was developed by Boston University President John R. Silber, recognized as one of the nation's foremost authorities on higher education.

Silber sees the plan as offering the greatest help to the greatest number of people with the least continuing expense to the taxpayer. It would allow families to escape from the difficult—and often impossible—choices forced upon them by tuition expenses.
